

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

15.—ROBERT, fourth Baron Boyd, of Kilmarnock, d. 1589. He was a trusted counsellor of Mary, Queen of Scots, and a lord of the Privy Council, and commanded a part of the Queen's army at the battle of Langside. Upon the Queen's retirement into England, Lord Boyd was one of the Commissioners appointed by Queen Elizabeth and Regent Murray, to determine the controversy between the Queen and her subjects, and to vindicate her character. He signed also the "Second Covenant," at Perth, 1558, and was one of her chief dependants till 1571, when, with the Regent and the Earl of Argyle, he deserted the Queen's party and married his daughter to that Earl, while another daughter was married to Hugh, Earl of Eglinton. In 1578 he was one of the Commissioners to treat with England, and in 1581, conspired with the Lords to remove the Duke of Lennox (a Catholic) from Court. They put the King under duress and compelled him to remove the Duke ; for which Lord Boyd, to save his life, fled to France. He returned in 1585, and was pardoned, and with the Earl of Bothwell, was sent, the same year, as Ambassador to England. Lord Boyd died in 1589, aged 72, and was buried in the Church in Kilmarnock, with this inscription on his tombstone :

" Here lies yat godly, noble, wise Lord Boyd ;
 " Who King and Kirk and Commons all ecord ;
 " Which were, while they this Jewell all enjoyed,
 " Maintained, governed and council'd by ye Lord ;
 " His Antient House oft peril'd, he restored.
 " Thrice six and sixty years he lived ; and syne
 " By death the 3d of January devoured,
 " In Anno thrice five hundred eighty-nine."

8.—EOIN (or JOHN) CARRACH MACDONNELL, of Leinster, who had :

9.—TIRLOUGH MACDONNELL, of Leinster, who had :

10.—CALVAGH (CHARLES) MACDONNELL, lord of Tenekille,* who d. 18th June, 1570, having issue :

* In the "Annals of the Kingdom of Ireland," year 1570, we find in relation to "Calvagh, the son of Turlough, son of John Carragh, son of MacDonnell, and his two sons and their forces," the following note :

"He was chief of one of the septs of the MacDonnells of Leinster. He was seated at Tinnakill, in the Parish of Coolbanagher, barony of Portmahinch, and Queen's County, where he possessed a considerable territory, as appears from various authorities, and where the keep of his castle still remains in tolerable preservation. The pedigree of this branch of the MacDonnells is given by O'Farrell in his Linea Antiqua, and by Duaid Mac Fírbeis, in his genealogical work, under the name of the Clann- onnell of Leinster, the posterity of Turlough Oge. They descended from that most powerful of all the clans of the Highlands of Scotland, the Lords of the Isles, and through Marcus, according to these writers, a younger son of Aengus Oge, the hero of Sir Walter Scott's Lord of the Isles, who had married a daughter of O'Kane.

Marcus, the ancestor of the Leinster branch, was slain, according to the Annals of Ulster, in the year 1397. The death of his son Turlough is recorded in the same annals at the year 1435. His Turlough had a son, Turlough Oge, in whose time the family appear to have settled in Leinster. The annals of Dudley Firlisse state that, in 1468, 'John, son to MacDonell, the best captain of the English,' was slain in a skirmish in Ofaly; and the Annals of Kilronan record that a son of Turlough Oge MacDonnell was slain in Leix [in the Queen's County] in 1504. About this period the MacDonnells of Leinster formed three septs, of whom two were seated in the now Queen's County, and the third in the present barony of Talbotstown, in the county of Wicklow, where their possessions, stretched along the foot of the mountain range upon the marches of the Pale, bore the name of 'the Clandonnell's cuntry,' as late as 1641. See MSS. Depositions, Kildare and Wicklow, in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, F. 2, 4, and 6. As early as 1524, 'Alexander, filius Terentii, filii Melmore MacDonnell de Balliranan, Generosus,' granted five townlands in this district to Gerald, Earl of Kildare, with an annual rent of three marks for ever.—(Inquisition, Rolls Office). His son Tirlagh, or Turlough Oge mac Alexander, appears as chieftain of one of 'the three septs of Gallowglasses of the Clandonnells,' whose curious indenture of composition with the Lord Deputy Sidney, dated May 7th, 1578 (which see under that year), is enrolled in the record branch of the office of Paymaster of Civil Services, Dublin. The two other chiefs at that time were Mulmurry mac Edmond, and Hugh Boy mac Callogh [or Calvagh], the former of Rahin, and the latter of Tenekille, in Queen's County.

"It appears from a memorial presented to the Earl of Essex in 1599, by the Irish Council, and printed by Fynes Moryson, that the then chief of the Wicklow sept was in arms with the O'Byrnes and O'Tooles in the mountains of the County of Dublin, and that the head of the Queen's County branch was in rebellion with the O'Mores.

"On the 26th of December, 1606, their chiefs had each a grant of sixteen shillings, Irish, per diem for life.—(See Erck's Report, Chan. Enroll.)

"Several Inquisitions in the Rolls and Chief Remembrancer's Offices ascertain the estates and succession of the line given by the Irish genealogists, with which, as well as with the notices in these annals, they perfectly accord. The Inquisitio post mortem of the Calvagh MacDonnell, mentioned above in the text, finds him possessed of the town and castle of Tenekill &c., bound, among other services, 'to keepe and mainteyne twelve able galloglas, on said castle and lands, sufficiently armed for the better inhabiting and preserving of the premises': upon sufficient warning, to attend upon the Governor of Ireland, or his deputy, and 'to go upon any Irishman bordering upon the foresaid countie' [of Leix]. The jurors find that his death took place on the 18th of June, 1570, which accords with the notice in the text. He left two sons, Hugh Boy and Alexander: the former was then of age, being born in 1546, and succeeded to the estate; the latter was slain in the year 1557, q. v. infra.

"The MacDonnells made a considerable figure in Wicklow also during the wars of 1641, and some of them are distinguished by the Parliamentarians as 'notorious commanders of Rebels.'

—See MSS. Depositions in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin. Of these was Alexander MacDonnell of Wicklow, gentleman, called in these depositions, 'the constable of Wicklow,' by which is meant, according to the usage of the Irish at this period, the commander of the gallowglasses.

11.—HUGH BUIDHE MACDONNELL, lord of the Manors of Tenekille and Ballycrassel, Queen's Co., b. 1546, d. 31st August, 1618. He m. Mary Moore, and had :

14.—LIEUTENANT BRYAN McDONALD, of Arklow, County Wicklow. He served in the Army of King James II., and in 1691, removed with his family to America, and settled in Mill Creek Hundred, New Castle Co., Delaware, where he purchased from Penn, 600 acres of land. He m. Mary, daughter of John Doyle, of Arklow, and dying in 1707, had, with other children :

15.—BRYAN McDONALD,, fourth son, removed, about 1753, to Boteourt Co., Va., and, dying in 1757, had, with other children, by his wife, Catherine :

1.—EDWARD McDONALD, who was killed by the Indians. He had several daughters, who married into the Campbell, Greenway and Russell families, of Abingdon, Va., and had issue.

2.—JOSEPH McDONALD, of Greenfield, near Blacksburg, Montgomery Co., Va., fourth son, b. 4th April, 1722, in Delaware, d. 1809. He m. Elizabeth Ogle, and had, with other issue : RICHARD and JONAS.

"At the Revolution, many of the MacDonnells of Leinster enrolled themselves under the banner of James II. In a roll of his officers, in 1690, preserved in MSS. in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, several of the name are mentioned as belonging to the regiments levied in that province."

See Memoirs of the Life and Writings of Charles O'Connor of Belanagare, p. 138-140; and Military Memoirs of the Irish Nation, p. 248.

At the same period in Colonel Francis Toole's regiment of foot, in King James' foot-guards, was Lieutenant Bryan MacDonnell, who is No. 14 on the foregoing pedigree. (See Dr. O'Donovan's edition of the Four Masters, Vol. V. pp. 1641-1642).

The possessions of this family stretched along the foot of the mountain range upon the Marches of the Pale, and bore the name of "The Clandonnell's Countrie," as late as 1641.

In O'Hart's Irish Pedigrees, Second Series, p. 216, is given each step in the MacDonnell (of Leinster) Family.

Also see "Genealogy of the McDonald Family, Edition B, comprising all Names obtained up to February, 1876, New Haven, 1879." This is a series of some 123 tables of families, giving births, marriages, and deaths, so far as known, of the descendants of Bryan MacDonald of Delaware.

PEDIGREE XXXVII.

GENERAL PRINCE JEROME BONAPARTE, Duc de Montfort, King of Westphalia, b. Ajaccio, 1784, d. Paris, 1860, was a son of Carlo-Maria Bonaparte, of Ajaccio, Corsica, b. 1746, d. 1785, by his wife, Letetia Romolino, and brother to Napoleon Bonaparte, Emperor of France; Joseph Bonaparte, King of Spain; Lucien Bonaparte, Prince of Canio; Louis Bonaparte, King of Holland, and Marie Annonciade Caroline Bonaparte, who m. 1800, Joachim Murat, King of Naples, 1808, and had by him, with other issue: Prince Napoleon Achille Murat, who in 1840, was an attorney-at-law in New Orleans, La., where he d. s. p., 1847, and who m. Betty Byrd Willis, of Fredericksburg, Va., a grand-niece of President Washington, and Prince Napoleon Lucien Charles Joseph Francois Murat, who m. Miss Fraser, an American lady, and had:

COL. JOSEPH JOACHIM NAPOLEON MURAT, b. 1834.

On 24th December, 1803, in Baltimore, Md., Prince Jerome married Elizabeth, daughter of William Patterson, of Baltimore, Md., President of the Bank of Baltimore; a native of Donegal, Ireland, and his wife, Dorcas Spear (sister to the wife of Major General Samuel Smith, U. S. Senator from Maryland), and had by her, who was b. 6th February, 1785, and d. Baltimore, 4th April, 1879, an only child:

JEROME NAPOLEON BONAPARTE, b. 7th July, 1805, at Camberwell, near London, England. He resided in Baltimore, Md., where he d. 17th June, 1870, leaving issue by his wife, Susan May Williams, of Baltimore, who d. 15th September, 1881, whom he m. 3d November, 1829, two sons:

1.—COL. JEROME NAPOLEON BONAPARTE, of Baltimore, Md., b. Baltimore, 5th November, 1830. He passed one year at Harvard University, and completed his education at the West Point Military Academy, from which he graduated in 1852. On August 16th, 1854, he resigned, and on the 7th of September following received from the hands of his kinsman, the late Emperor Napoleon III., a commission as Second Lieutenant in the 7th Dragoons of the French Army. He became a First

Lieutenant in June, 1855; was transferred to the 1st Chasseurs d'Afrique in May, 1859, as Captain; was transferred to the 1st Carabiniers in February, 1860; was made Chief d'Escadron, or Major, of the 3d Cuirassiers in August, 1865; and was transferred to the Dragons de l'Imperatrice in March, 1857, in which he became Lieutenant-Colonel in August, 1870. During this period he was nearly all the time on active duty, taking part in several memorable campaigns, and fully and fairly earning his promotions. He served in the Crimean war as an engineer, being at the battles of Balaklava, Inkerman, and Tchernaiia, and the siege of Sebastopol, as well as in numerous skirmishes, and was rewarded for his gallantry by the Sultan of Turkey with the Medjidie Order; by the Emperor with the Legion of Honor, and by the Queen of England with the Crimean Medal. He went through the Algerian campaign against the Kybeles in 1856-57. He next took part in the Italian campaign of 1859, and was engaged in the battles of Montebello and Solferino, and in numerous outpost skirmishes. During a part of this period he was on the Emperor's staff, and was decorated by him with the Medaille d'Italie, and by the King of Sardinia with the decoration of Military Valor. He was transferred to the 1st Carabiniers, and at the close of the war accompanied his regiment to Tours and Luneville. From that time he was on garrison duty up to 1867, when he was transferred to the Guard of the Empress Eugenie. When the Emperor went to the front, at the opening of the war with Prussia in 1870, leaving the Empress as Regent in Paris, Colonel Bonaparte became practically the commandant at the Tuileries, hurrying to France from this country, when news of the outbreak of the struggle reached him. He remained in Paris throughout the siege which followed the fall of the Empire, and barely escaped with his life on the Communist uprising in the spring of 1871. In April of that year he returned to the United States, and has resided in this country most of the time since then. In September, 1871, Colonel Bonaparte married Mrs. Caroline Le Roy (Appleton) Edgar, of Boston, grand-daughter of Daniel Webster, and had issue:

1.—LOUISE EUGENIA BONAPARTE, b. 1873.

2.—JEROME BONAPARTE, b. 1877.

2.—CHARLES JOSEPH BONAPARTE, of Baltimore, Md., b. 1832. He studied law at Harvard College, and made a high reputation at the Baltimore bar. He m. 1875, Ellen Channing Day, of Boston, grand-daughter of William Ellery Channing. No issue.

Nicholas O'Connor, of Philadelphia, b. 1785, d. 1828. This family claims to represent the O'Connors-Faile, a celebrated race in Irish history, barons of a large territory between Kildare and the Shannon, who claimed descent from Rina Faileagh, the eldest son of Calor-Mor, the 109th Monarch of Ireland. During the Tudor period the O'Connors-Faile were prominent in the Geraldine rebellion. From this time they became objects of the jealousy of the Tudor Monarchs, and as their possessions lay along the frontier of the Pale, they were exposed to the brunt of repeated invasions, and in 1554, their territory was seized and changed into King's County. But until the close of the 16th century they retained a shadow of their former state, and occupied a part of their ancient patrimony. At length, after a tedious struggle, they were entirely subdued in 1599.
